

As a cross-industry Information Technology consultancy, Talentschmiede promotes the employment of graduates and young professionals. We offer our customers project teams with young, talented and highly motivated employees, which we continuously develop with our innovative training and support concept.

Junior Business Analyst (m/f)

For strengthening our team based in Frankfurt (Main), we are currently looking for several enthusiastic graduates (m/f) who intend to work as a Junior Business Analyst (m/f):

Your tasks:

- You will undergo an individual training program and with our support and guidance you will develop into a certified requirements engineer according to REQB.
- You will be involved in our customer projects and will get familiar with various IT tasks of a Senior Associate Consultant during the on-the-job-training.
- You will accompany and support the requirements analysis in close cooperation with the business unit.
- Together with the specialists in development and production you will develop an IT solution within defined steps from the requirement adjustment to the development up to its implementation.
- As part of the requirements analysis, you will support the identification of business processes as well as the identification of technical framework conditions and requirements. You create and maintain the relevant documents.
- You will support the development process through professional tests.
- Upon delivering the software, you will contribute to the instruction and training of the professional users.
- You take part in the REQB certification as a Certified Requirements Engineer and acquire further qualifications.

Your profile:

- You have completed one of the following degrees: computer science, business informatics, economics with focus on IT, mathematics, physics or engineering disciplines (university or technical college) or have equivalent professional experience, for example, as an IT specialist with an excellent examination degree.
- You have experience and good knowledge in applied IT.
- You are team-oriented and likely convey your knowledge and experiences with your team.
- You know how to act competently and conveniently towards customers
- You have very good German skills
